These Three Words, LLC in association with the Rok Bar 'N' Grill will hold a fund raising event and celebration to support the feature length film entitled "These Three Words" a film exploring how the heart and soul are changed when a life threatening disease takes over.

The film will feature 5 individuals in various stages brain cancer, and facing the medical and emotional repercussions of diagnosis, including the all too real human will to survive, to the challenges of research, clinical trials and insurance, all from some surprising perspectives.

The evening will feature a clip from the movie and an original song produced and performed by brain cancer survivor Ace Diamond and Amber Bettez.

Rok Bar 'N' Grill owner Brandon Sweet will provide the venue and food for this event. "We care deeply about the impact this disease has on the individuals and their families. We are honored to do our part," says owner Sweet.

A buffet featuring vegetarian and vegan foods will be among the offerings. A cash bar and valet parking will also be available. The restaurant is handicap accessible for wheelchairs.

The Rhode Island Film Collaborative will act as the Fiscal Sponsor for the film. Donations to the film are made to the RIFC. Those funds are tax deductible to the full extent allowed by IRS rules and regulations.

"There is no better time to educate the world about brain cancer. Coming at the end of Brain Cancer Awareness Month this is a fitting time to celebrate the research, the doctors and clinicians who help those with this deadly disease," says Executive Producer Paul A. Roselli. Roselli will lead the production team.

The film is co-produced by Paul A. Roselli and Ethan Maytum.
